

How Has Hepworth Stayed Open And Running At Full Strength During The Corona Virus?

It is a difficult and volatile time during the unprecedented corona virus, and it can be especially tough for businesses, not least ones that are involved in daily global trade. Many are asking what can be done in order for business to operate and prosper? Throughout the ever-changing corona virus situation, the priority of the company is to look after the health and safety of all employees, while also safeguarding the future of the business. Here are the measures we have put in place at Hepworth to continue going strong, with plenty of stock, and operating in full force.

1 INTERNAL MEASURES

Without doubt, prevention is one of the most important measure when it comes to corona virus and it is crucial to maintain outstanding hygiene at every opportunity. This is precisely why our dedicated team have installed additional alcohol hand sanitisers, extended throughout our 90,000sqft premises.

From the manufacturing area to the offices, there is an alcohol rub unit installed at every major entrance and corridor of the premises, encouraging us to disinfect our hands throughout the day and prevent bacteria at every point. In addition, all internal surfaces such as desks, windows and doors are cleaned daily.

2 TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS AND SELF ISOLATION

We have carefully assessed the situation and have decided to take the necessary action and avoid all travel as a company. All the work and daily processes continue as normal from the location of our premises.

Furthermore, the staff are provided with daily, sometimes even hourly updates from HR as the situation progresses and news and instructions are received on the current circumstances. Teamwork is crucial in these stressful times, working as a collective is what makes the difference in not only taking the necessary actions and precautions, but also acting in the right time.

3 STOCKED AND READY FOR BUSINESS

Safeguarding the future of the business is paramount, as our priority is to guarantee our customers full support. In taking strict and immediate measures and maintaining consistency, we ensure the wellbeing of our business and demonstrate why throughout this crisis, Hepworth has plenty of stock and is continuing to provide the best quality wiper systems, leading by example throughout global adversity.
